The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the stop formed by a step in the base plate, as set forth in claims 6, 17 and 24 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

There is no definite antecedent basis for "the first connector piece".

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Berning.

Figures 1 and 2 show structure as claimed, wherein reclining units may be secured together by two components such that the connection prevents relative horizontal movement but allows relative vertical movement.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Stephan.

Figures 4 and 5 show a connecting structure between two seat members wherein relative horizontal movement is prevented but relative vertical movement is allowed. Note that the interconnecting structure is configured such that it "permits" interconnection of the two chair units when the two units are brought together via a relative horizontal movement.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rogers in view of Hardee.

Rogers (figs. 1-6) shows structure similar to that claimed, including a striker bar or "post" 13 on one component that is engaged in a slot 30 in another component, wherein a locking finger 18 is provided to rotate to lock the post within the slot. A biasing spring 34 is provided to bias the finger towards the engagement position. While the post is not movable in a longitudinal direction, the patent to Hardee (figs. 1-3) teaches the mounting of a striker member 30 by means of both a pivotal or horizontal movement via slot 32, wherein the user has a choice of two unlocking movements. In view of this suggestion, to have mounted the post 13 of the latching mechanism of Rogers such that it may be disengaged from the slot by a movement along its axis, would have been an obvious modification to one with ordinary skill in the art, thereby providing more versatility for user.

Claims 18-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stephan in view of Berning.

As set forth above, Stephan show interconnecting structure as claimed. To have utilized the interconnecting structure of Stephan between two recliner chairs, as suggested by Berning, would have been an obvious modification to one with ordinary skill in the art, as would the mounting of the interconnecting components to the base of the reclining mechanism.

Claims 4-11, 16,17, and 22-29 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Ware et al, Ballendat et al, Schultz et al, Saul et al, Eppelt and LaPointe et al show various features of the invention.
